SOCIAL STUDIES OFFERS A VARIETY OF ENGAGING COURSES TO SUIT EVERYONE!

BMSS offers a variety of Social Studies courses.

The main goals of Social Studies are to develop thoughtful, responsible, active citizens who are able to acquire the requisite information needed to consider multiple perspectives and to make reasoned judgments. The Social Studies curriculum provides students with opportunities as citizens to critically reflect upon events and issues in order to examine the present, make connections to the past, and consider the future. Through their participation in Social Studies, students are encouraged to:

- Understand and prepare to exercise their roles, rights, and responsibilities within the community, Canada, and the world.
- Develop an appreciation of democracy and what it means to be both Canadian and a global citizen.
- Demonstrate respect for human equality and diversity.
- Think critically, evaluate information, and practice effective communication.

Advanced Placement (AP):

Students with a strong academic background are able to take AP courses. Students who complete an AP 12 course in either grade 11 or 12, and write an associated AP exam (in May) can qualify for post-secondary credit at universities and colleges. See counselors or Social Studies teachers for more details. There is an extra fee to write each AP exam.

AP Economics (Macro
& Microeconomics)
AP Psychology 12

*NOTE:
AP courses cannot be used to meet the new BC ministry graduation requirements; however, students will receive credit upon completion of an AP course

20th Century World History 12— A study of world history in the 20th century. Topics include: WWI & its conclusion, the rise of dictators, the Depression, WWII, the Cold War, the Middle East and the present day world. Prevailing themes include the roles of the individual leaders and personalities. Emphasis is placed on why the events took place, and how they have affected our world today.

BC First Peoples Studies 12— A study of local contemporary issues from an Indigenous lens. Topics include identities, worldviews, languages, and peoples that are renewed through connection to land, as well as a focus on colonialism and its effects, self-determination, and reconciliation.

Law Studies 12— A survey course of Canadian law and legal issues; emphasis is on statute law, case law, Charter of Rights and freedoms, criminal law, procedural law, human rights, contracts, torts, family law, consumer law, young offenders law, and emerging legal concerns.

Philosophy 12— A course examining the major branches and themes of philosophy including metaphysics, epistemology, ethics, aesthetics, and logic. Topics range from political philosophy, the philosophy of science, language and education.

Physical Geography 12— A study of the forces that shape the earth's surface, the resulting features, and how they affect people. Students will study aspects of astronomy, oceanography, climatology, geology, environmental issues.

Psychology 11 & 12— This course introduces behaviour and basic psychological concepts and enables students to put them into practice. The areas studied include the biological basis of behaviour as well as human development and social psychology (personality, abnormal behaviour, treatments etc.)

Social Justice 12— A unique course that will develop students' ethical and philosophical reasoning skills by exploring issues of in/injustice and human rights in a local and global context. A heavy focus on current issues guides topics which include human rights, equality, equity, animal rights, speciesism, privilege, genocide, poverty, global issues and conflicts, prejudice/discrimination, racism, sexism, gender studies, heterosexism, SOGI/2SLBGTQIA+ issues, human trafficking, lookism, etc.

Human Geography 12— This course focuses on how humans impact and interact with the world around them, and introduces students to the systematic study of patterns and processes that have shaped human understanding, use, and alteration of the Earth's surface. Students will employ spatial concepts and landscape analysis to analyze human social organization and its environmental consequences. (Interested students can take the AP exam-see teacher for details).

AP Economics (Microeconomics & Macroeconomics)- These TWO courses are taught as part of a year-long course and prepares students for the two AP exams in May. AP Microeconomics is taught from September to January and AP Macroeconomics is covered from January to May. Microeconomics looks at the functions of individual decision makers, buyers and sellers, within the economic system. Macroeconomics looks at how the principles of economics apply to an economic system as a whole.

AP Psychology 12— This course will introduce students to the systematic and scientific study and behaviour and mental processes of human beings and other animals. Students will be exposed to psychological principles and phenomena associated with each of the subfields in psychology.
